Incumbents fall in Granite City Council races

By Bill Bagby

GRANITE CITY — A recount will be sought in the city's 1st Ward aldermanic race. Incumbent 1st Ward Alderman Everett Morlen defeated challenger Juanita Crawley by three votes in Tuesday's election. Morlen also defeated Alan Funk, another challenger.

"I lost by three lousy votes," Crawley said Tuesday night. A recount of votes will be sought, she said. "I'm coming back in two years," Funk said. Morlen, an alderman since 1969, said he wasn't worried about the outcome of the election. He said the campaign was "just a hard race."

In other election results, two new, two former and two incumbent aldermen will be a part of the new council starting in May. James Miller Jr. defeated 32-year council member Sam Whitmer by 47 votes in the 2nd Ward.

"I feel very strongly that the people in the 2nd Ward payed attention to the newspaper and their own feelings," Miller said. "I kind of believe it's a new day." The race against Whitmer was tough, Miller said, because Whitmer had experience and a "strong base of voters."

"I'm a John Doe citizen who ran for office and won," he said. Miller didn't spend a lot of money on his campaign, he said. Instead, telephone calls were made and door-to-door campaigning was done, he said. "It was a grassroots movement," he said.

Whitmer had no comment. In the 4th Ward, Dan Partney came from behind to defeat Alderman Tom Hewlett by 132 votes. Hewlett was leading most of the evening, until votes were received from the 8th Precinct in West Granite City. Partney's home precinct, Partney received 37 votes in the precinct; Hewlett got 50.

Last-minute surge gives Partney win

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — At first, the party was subdued. Supporters brushed past the latest precinct counts. Some were sitting, drinking beer and eating lunch meat sandwiches. Aldermanic candidate for the 4th Ward, Dan Partney, sat with his elbows on his knees smoking a cigarette near the kitchen of the Moose Lodge, 4 feet from the telephone. Every call muted most small talk. The telephone was the main attraction at Partney's campaign party on Tuesday evening.

At 10:30 p.m., the Partney campaign was down by 160 votes with three precincts still blank on the voting chart. "We better win. I worked too hard to lose," said one woman. Others speculated the precincts already counted were known to be strong areas for Partney's opponent, incumbent Tom Hewlett, while some were nervous about Hewlett's strong lead. "We can't just break even now in Precinct 30. If we do," said one Partney campaign worker, not wanting to finish the statement.

West Granite hasn't come in yet. That's where we'll make it," one seasoned old-timer to Granite City election campaigns said. The phone rang. Partney's tabulator scribbled in Precinct results. Partney lost the precinct by six. The beer still flowed, the phone still rang but people were talking softer. Children were getting restless while adults tried to put the best face on what was happening. Nobody suggested the battle was lost.

Voter fraud alleged in ward race

MADISON — Voter fraud charges are being made by Mayor John Belloco and 3rd Ward Alderman-elect John Hamm. The two contained Wednesday to Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles who referred them to Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen. The county prosecutor did not tell them when or if an opinion on the complaint would be given. The complaint is against a Nameoki Township precinct committeeman and a poll judge for Nameoki's 2nd Precinct. The two, along with at least three others, allegedly voted in the 3rd Ward aldermanic race Tuesday, but none live in Madison. The 2nd Precinct poll shared space with the Venice Township 7th Precinct poll at the Madison

'Run-down' library may be moved

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — Dangling wallpaper, missing ceiling tiles, light fixtures yellowed with age and a hodge-podge of old wooden chairs and tables — that is the Granite City High School library. School Board members, teachers, administrators and citizens toured the library Monday with head librarian Bob McBride to examine how to expand it. The library can seat 100 students and comprises about 3,000 square feet. Lack of space is its biggest problem, said McBride. He said about 120 students use the library daily and it serves about 2,700 high school students. "Every student has to use this library at least once in their time here," McBride said. McBride said the library is "run-down" and has a number of physical problems, such as shelf aisles too narrow for a wheelchair to turn around in, and little space for extra books. Tables and chairs are small for high-schoolers, with many chairs having years of graffiti etched into the wooden surfaces.

and use the things he would be using at the University of Illinois or SIU," he said. On Monday, the board voted to buy about $24,000 in books, microfilm and computer equipment to help improve the library.

McBride said the equipment and books would be in place by fall. The books will replace old and missing volumes. The computers will be for circulation and student use.

Apartments mean revenue for city, schools

By Jack C. Ventimiglia

GRANITE CITY — The combined clout of U.S. Rep. Mel Price and Sen. Dan Dixon could bring 100 apartments for military personnel and their families to the Army depot. The apartments could increase District 9 revenue by more than $270,000 and add about $13,000 to the city's tax base. "I called in some markers, pulled some strings and asked that this be done," said Price, ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee. The $9.7 million project "looks good in the House," said Bob Samples, Price's aide in Edwardsville. House approval would advance the bill to the Senate's Military Construction Subcommittee, chaired by Dixon. "Sen. Dixon supports the project and will do everything he can to back it," said Wayne Nelson. If approved, the apartments would be designed in 1988 and construction would begin in 1989. Samples said. The apartments would serve personnel stationed at the depot and in St. Louis, adding to District 9's revenue, said Norma Owca, the school district's financial director. Based on an average of 1.5 children per household, the 150 children who might live in

"It would be a money maker for the district. It's a ton of money. It's equivalent to nine teaching positions."

Elementary students would attend Prather. The city's share of motor fuel and state income taxes would produce about $44 per person based on fiscal 1988 projections, said city Comptroller Joe Mikovic. If 300 persons move into the 100 apartments, revenue would rise by about $13,200.

Putting the apartments at the depot is advocated by Col. Robert Fortin, depot commander. "He's been a leading force in helping Congressman Price," Samples said. Price, 81, wants to get the apartments for Granite City before retiring from Congress, Samples said. Price is not seeking re-election.

"The running joke is he's not running for Congress again, he's running for Senate," Samples said.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED

Attorney At Law

When a person slips on ice or snow in a store's parking lot, is he entitled to be compensated for injuries he sustains? The answer to this question may depend on whether the injured party is an employee of the store or merely a patron. Cases in Illinois show that it is much more difficult for a store patron to recover money damages for such an injury than it is for an employee.

An employee of the store will merely have to demonstrate that the injury occurred in the course of his employment. He will not have to show that the owner was negligent in failing to maintain the parking lot. An injury to an employee while on the lot during normal working hours is compensable.

A store patron, on the other hand, would have to demonstrate negligence on the part of the property owner in order to recover for his injuries. In Illinois, a property owner has no liability for injuries resulting from a fall on snow or ice which has accumulated naturally and has not been disturbed by the owner. There is no duty to remove natural accumulations of snow and ice even after a reasonable length of time. Even if the owner of the parking lot attempts to remove the snow and this leaves a natural ice formation underneath, this does not of itself constitute negligence.

Two cases will help illustrate this distinction. In one case, a shopping mall patron slipped and fell on a loading ramp, hurting his leg and knee. In this instance, the patron was helping a store clerk load a ping-pong table that he had just purchased. It had begun to snow, and there was snow on the ramp when he fell. The Court held that the patron could not recover against the store and dismissed the case.

In another case, a worker employed for 24 years slipped and fell in the company parking lot, severely injuring his hand. The evidence showed that although he was not due to begin work until 7:00 o'clock, on the morning in question he arrived at 6:00 o'clock to find the parking lot covered with ice and snow. He proceeded about 15 feet toward the company cafeteria, and then he fell. In this case, the Illinois Supreme Court held that the injury was in the course of his employment and was compensable.

Collins, Franklin win Venice seats

By Valerie Evenden

Staff writer

VENICE — Unofficial returns show Charles Collins winning the 1st Ward aldermanic race and Silver Franklin getting a slim majority in the 2nd Ward in the only two contested races in Venice.

Incumbents 3rd Ward Alderman George E. Lewis and 4th Ward Alderman Victor A. Valentine Sr. were unopposed. Lewis tallied 95 votes and Valentine got 137 votes.

The last election printout coming into the Granite City township building at about 10 p.m. Tuesday listed results from the 2nd Precinct in the 2nd Ward. The vote totals showed Franklin receiving 150 and winning the aldermanic seat by three votes over Barbara Harrell, who collected 147 votes.

The same race unseated incumbent George Mangiaracino, who served as alderman for 32 years. Mangiaracino received 82 votes and Mervyn Langston tallied 12 votes in the four-way contest.

"I lost by three votes? You're saying three votes?" said Harrell.

The candidate sounded incredulous as she questioned the Rev. John Henry Williams who was checking the final printout coming out of the township center's computer.

Things didn't click until I got home last night," Harrell said Wednesday when she raised some questions about alleged voting irregularities at the 2nd Precinct polling place in the Venice Recreation Center.

"There are 19 ballots that are unexplained," she said.

"There were 396 votes cast but only 376 votes counted in Precinct 2. One of the votes was an orange ballot for George Lewis (whose ward laps over into the Precinct 2) but where are the other 19 votes?" Harrell asked.

Harrell said one of the 2nd Precinct polling devices was closed down for a time when a voter reported someone had torn out the page listing aldermanic candidates from the election booklet used in the voting booths.

County Clerk Evelyn Bowles said it is not unusual for ballot books to be defaced. "People write and draw on the pages all the time," she said.

"I don't know how many people went in there before somebody reported the page was missing," Harrell said. Venice voters also were being asked to rescind a school textbook fee and elect park commissioners.

"Some people may not have realized a page was completely missing from the ballot," Harrell said. "But that still doesn't explain those 19 votes."

The total number of persons voting and the total number of votes cast never are the same, the county clerk said.

Venice agrees to take part in area cleanup

By Valerie Evenden

Staff writer

VENICE — The community will participate in an areawide cleanup campaign, sponsored by the Community Betterment Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

Aldermen agreed to encourage residents to take part in the annual drive, which will start April 25 and continue through May 1.

Launching the week-long event will be the traditional "Stash-Trash" event, featuring area pickups by Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops. A schedule and specific routes for collection shortly will be announced.

Echols reminded aldermen that all sections of the Quad City Area are being invited to cooperate in this year's cleanup and beautification program. Mayor Tyrone Echols reported.

Second Ward Alderman George Mangiaracino discussed a problem with some property in the 1200 block of Robin Street.

"They still haven't done anything there and it's a mess. Now there's a truck standing there loaded with telephone poles," the alderman said.

Echols reminded aldermen to complete compiling a list of neglected property in their wards for action by the attorney.

"We've been dragging our feet on this one," Echols said, responding to Mangiaracino. "Get the health inspector down there and we'll have the attorney look into it," he said.

Council members refused to halt legal proceedings, initiated at the March 17 meeting, against property at 1017 Logan Ave. owned by Oscar Hampton. Demolition of the property is being sought.

Hampton attended last week's council session and said he believes he has the property sold. He cited ill health and financial difficulties as reasons it is in despair.

"Be sure to tell him (prospective buyer) the property is now in the hands of the court, unless this council decides to change its mind and proceed otherwise," the mayor said.

"For the past 1 1/2 years the neighbors were after me and I believe we gave Mr. Hampton adequate time to do something about the place," 4th Ward Alderman Victor Valentine Sr. said. "As far as withdrawing the action, I say 'no,'" the alderman said.

"I feel the same way as Mr. Valentine — that it's time to take action and let the attorney proceed with it," said 4th Ward Alderman Charles Haynes. The property is in the 4th Ward.

Auto testing program backfires for local man

By Bill Bagby

Staff writer

MITCHELL — When Donald Sparks' auto passed a vehicle emissions test Oct. 16 at the Mitchell testing station, Sparks thought his problems were over. But, they were just starting.

On Jan. 2, Sparks, of Granite City, received a warning notice from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) saying his auto hadn't passed the test.

"The notice said failure to pass the test could result in driver's license or vehicle registration suspension or a fine."

"This is a form of harassment in my opinion and I don't like it," said Sparks, a retired federal government employee.

He called Mac Yarbrough at the IEPA office in East St. Louis.

"I explained to Mr. Yarbrough that the notice received by me was in error," Sparks said. "That I had, in fact, presented my car to the designated test station . . . and that the official test results indicated that my car had passed minimum pollution levels prescribed by law."

Yarbrough told Sparks the problem is statewide, stemming from computer malfunction and operator errors at the test stations. Sparks said Yarbrough advised Sparks to ignore the first notice and action would be taken to correct the computer data, Sparks said.

Whenever errors like this are made, Yarbrough told Sparks, it's assumed the vehicle owner failed to comply with the inspection law, Sparks said. To update the computer, Sparks was told a warning notice is sent, and then "to rely on official information contained in the file copy of the respective vehicle owners," he said.

Sparks thought the problem was solved, but he received a second warning notice March 14. "I'm fighting a bureaucracy and I don't like it," he said.

Sparks' son, John, also encountered problems with the testing procedure. Sparks said John received notice Oct. 30 to have his truck tested. John sold the truck for another vehicle.

Sparks said On March 14, John received a final warning notice to have the truck he sold tested, without receiving a first or second warning, Sparks said.

Reggie Howard, area IEPA supervisor, said other vehicle owners are receiving warning notices after their cars have passed the test.

Owners, he said, should have their vehicles tested upon receiving the notice. The problems are being caused, Howard said, by some vehicle owners waiting a month or longer to have their cars tested.

Owners whose vehicles have passed the required test should ignore any warning notices, Howard said. The warning notices are a reminder and aren't to threaten the vehicle owner, he said.

Sparks said he hopes his problems can be resolved before he's required to have his car tested again in October.

No action taken on Shoney's

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Construction of a Shoney's Restaurant at Nameoki Road and Richmond Avenue remains on hold.

Last night, the City Council voted to send the issue back to the city's plan commission for further review. The aldermen also recommended that chairman Phillip Thies call a special meeting of the commission before the April 21 council meeting.

The issue was sent back to the commission so they can review a report written by Alan Ortals, city economic development director, said 4th Ward Alderman Tom Hewlett, chairman of the council's planning and zoning committee. The report, Hewlett said, contained information the commission hasn't reviewed.

Shoney's would create 60-75 full- and part-time jobs, which would reduce the city's unemployment rate two-thirds of a percent, Ortals said in the report.

The restaurant would gross $1.5 million in sales yearly and produce $105,000 a year in tax revenue, Ortals said.

Concerning storm water drainage, Ortals said C.D. Peters Construction Co. is to install a force main to drain the Briarcliff Pond into the North Granite Pond. Shoney's lot could be drained into a 30-inch line on Fair Oaks Drive, he said. The force main, expected to be completed by May 20, would reduce the load on the Fair Oaks line, Ortals said.

On sanitary sewers, Ortals said residents on Fair Oaks experience sewer problems due to a faulty lift station located behind Nameoki School. Shoney's would also empty into the lift station, he said, though they would be connected into a separate line. C.D. Peters is to replace the pump, which should be finished by May 15, he said.

Traffic at Nameoki and Richmond, Ortals said, is estimated at 21,500 vehicles a day.

"Based on the average Shoney's restaurant, they project 400 vehicles a day to visit the restaurant," he said. "If each of these is a vehicle that would not otherwise be on Nameoki Road, it would raise the traffic level by 1.8 percent."

Free textbooks in Venice approved

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Voters overwhelmingly rescinded a 1979 referendum which established textbook rental fees for students in Tuesday's election.

A total of 388 persons voted to rescind the fees, 67 voted against.

Fees will be eliminated for all students starting in September, Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers said.

The Board of Education amended school policy last October by agreeing that any student eligible to participate in the district's free lunch program could receive books without charge.

Between 80 and 85 percent of the student enrollment appeared to be eligible for free or reduced-cost lunches, Vickers estimated at that time.

The referendum eliminating fees was required since voters approved a measure making pupils pay a rental fee for textbooks in 1979.

3 named to Venice Park District

Three candidates ran unopposed for seats on the Venice Board of Park Commissioners in the election Tuesday. Total votes recorded by the three were:

Harold Wilson Sr., 1131 Douglas St., 516; Linda Thorpe, 151 Viola Jones Homes, 389; and Joan Silas, 124 Market St., 377. Wilson and Silas are incumbents. Thorpe is a newcomer to the park board.

Not up for re-election this year on the five-member board were Anna Claggett, board president, and Earl Hogan.

Academy graduate

65 mph in Illinois soon

SPRINGFIELD — Leadfoot, rejoice! The speed limit on segments of Interstate highway in Illinois could be raised to 65 mph for autos, as early as a month from now.

The Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) on Friday reached a determination that it could administratively implement the higher speed limit without changing state law.

IDOT had earlier said a bill would have to be passed by the legislature adopting the new federal provision permitting an increase in the speed limit from 55 to 65 mph on "rural" Interstate highways. Two bills to raise the limit are pending in the Illinois House and one in the Senate.

But a legal opinion by Phil

Weber, counsel for Illinois Senate Republicans, changed the agency's mind.

Weber is a former Madison County assistant state's attorney and public defender. In a legal opinion requested by a GOP senator, Weber noted current state law governing the maximum speed limit outside urban districts imposed the 55 mph for cars as a temporary limit only during the period it was required by federal law.

Weber's opinion said Congress' repeal of the 55-mph limit on rural Interstates "would automatically restore the speed limit in Illinois to 65 mph for automobiles on highways outside an urban district and that state legislation in this regard is, consequently, unnecessary."

AUTO BURGLARIES REPORTED IN PARKVIEW DRIVE AREA

Bill Blockman of 2562 Parkview Drive told police April 5 a burglar entered his auto and took a briefcase, containing assorted papers, a checkbook and two cartons of cigarettes. Police later located the briefcase in a trash can at Kirkpatrick Homes.

Ronnie Williams, 2566 Parkview, said April 5 a burglar took $5 in coins from his car. The dashboard of the auto was damaged by the intruder in an attempt to open the glove box.

MAN ARRESTED AT GRILL

Martin E. Glaspie III, 25, of 1619 Delmar Ave. was charged April 6 with disorderly conduct and criminal damage to property at Curt's Grill, 1623 Madison Ave. Glaspie allegedly jumped over a service counter, scattering food, plates and other items. When he jumped back over the counter, he struck and broke a section of glass in the front of the building, police allege.

ITEMS TAKEN FROM GARAGE

Clete Idoux of 2924 Dogwood Drive told police April 6 a burglar entered his garage between December and March. Taken were a metal tool box and a vinyl case, both containing assorted tools, and a circular saw and a drill.

STEREO TAKEN FROM CAR

John Grand, 2906 Oak St., said April 6 a burglar took an AM-FM cassette stereo, speakers and a power booster from his auto. Value of the items is $500.

3 FACE CANNABIS CHARGES

Harold Love, 17, of 15 Briarcliff Drive and two 16-year-old Granite City boys were charged April 6 with unlawful possession of cannabis. Officers alleged seeing the three smoking a cannabis cigarette on 30th Street between Iowa Street and Washington Avenue. The three were released on notices to appear at a hearing.

$900 DAMAGE IN FIRE DUE TO HOT GREASE ON STOVE

A grease fire caused $900 damage April 6 to the home of Janice Avants, 718 N. 26th Place. Firefighters said she left the house while grease was heating on the stove.

Avants' daughter discovered the fire when she returned home from school. The girl notified a neighbor, who extinguished the blaze before firefighters arrived.

SHOTGUNS, TAPES TAKEN

Joseph White, 842 Thorngate Drive, Mitchell, told Madison County authorities April 5 a burglar took shotguns and video cassette recorder tapes from his home. Value of the items is $900.

$100 EQUIVALENT MISSING

An equivalent valued at $100 was taken from under the dashboard in the burglary of a truck parked outside the apartment of Steven Frederick, 1240 22nd St., he reported April 3.

HURT IN CAR-TRUCK CRASH

Jeffrey L. Hoffman, 21, of 2245 Waterman Ave. was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center after his car collided with a pickup truck driven by Donald R. Freeman, 36, of 2015 Skeen St., Madison, at Nameoki Road and Washington Avenue at 4:55 p.m. April 4. Hoffman was charged with failure to yield the right of way at an intersection.

Area drivers face license suspensions

Driver licenses of an estimated 500 Madison and St. Clair counties motorists are to be suspended for failure to comply with notices for mandatory emissions tests of their vehicles.

Notices of suspension of the driver licenses were mailed April 3 to vehicle owners who have ignored notices since last spring to bring vehicles in for emissions testing.

The suspension notices from the Illinois secretary of state's office inform the tailpipe-test scofflaws their licenses are suspended May 3, said Gary Mack, spokesman for Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

If they get the test within the next few days they can probably beat the computer entry of suspension but there's no guarantee anymore," Mack said.

The April 3 suspension letters were the third notice sent by the secretary of state to those first notified last May to report for emissions tests.

Previous warnings were mailed in December and February, following three earlier notices from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, which is responsible for the testing program.

Mack said more license suspension notices will probably go out in two or three weeks to motorists who were notified to report for emission tests last June.

Because of improvements in the computer system for the emission testing program, the cycle of warnings leading to license suspension "should be tightening in the next couple of months," Mack added.

Once the secretary of state's computers show a license suspended, vehicle operators can be ticketed for driving on a suspended license, he said.

In addition, motorists driving with expired emission testing stickers can be ticketed by police and fined up to $300, although apparently no such arrests have yet been made in the state.

SIUE helps contractors

Amy Gebhardt

Becky Schwab

Melanie Kosuge

Tracy Thurman

A three-year-old advisory program at SIUE for disadvantaged minority- and women-owned transportation and construction contractors is being expanded to 27 more counties in the southern part of the state.

Funding from the Illinois Department of Transportation for the "Contractors Supportive Service Project" was increased to $200,000 this year to allow the expansion, said the director of the SIUE project, Steven J. Hanna, assistant dean of engineering.

In its first three years, Hanna and two assistants worked with struggling transportation firms in Highway District 8 — Calhoun, Greene, Jersey, Madison, Bond, St. Clair, Clinton, Washington, Monroe and Randolph counties. The IDOT grant last year was $160,000.

The expansion carries the SIUE services to counties in District 7 and 9 — basically, all those south of Interstate 70.

"There are two other contractors working with similar firms elsewhere in Illinois, but we are the only university-based contractor and our education approach is unique," Hanna said.

Federal regulations require participation of disadvantaged minority- and women-owned businesses in highway and other transportation construction projects that involve federal funding.

But to be eligible, such firms must receive IDOT certification for meeting legal standards and organizational and operational competence to do the work.

"I got a lot of support from SIUE," said Marge Gavin. She had problems gaining certification for various jobs when she began operating the R. McMillin Truck Service of Lebanon eight years ago after the death of her father.

IDOT officials advised her to seek assistance from the SIUE project. A counselor from the program came to her firm to analyze her organization, and she attended several project seminars.

"They helped us find a computer and an accountant, track our cash flow, and improve other procedures," Gavin said. Her firm was one of 91 receiving the SIUE program's benefits in 1986, said Diana Little, the project's field representative. The other full-time staffer is Victor Wicks, assistant to the director.

Faculty from the School of Engineering and School of Business and some private consultants cooperate "to provide expertise in a variety of management and technical areas," Hanna said.

The project involves three kinds of education efforts: four- to six-week evening courses; special Saturday workshops and seminars; and one-on-one tutoring with individual firms.

Topics include bidding and estimating, computer procedures, developing business plans, office needs, actual job costing versus bid estimating, interpretation of plans and specifications, and contract addendums and modifications.

"It is our view that the educational portion is vital if the firms are to effectively function as independent small businesses," Hanna said.

Most of the classes take place in the School of Engineering. The expansion will involve sessions at several sites in Districts 7 and 9, possibly in Carbondale and Mt. Vernon, Hanna said.

Information on the Contractors Supportive Service Project may be obtained by calling 1-800-654-3922 or 652-2300, extension 32.

Authors meeting set

On May 16, area grade school students will go to Normal, Ill., for the statewide Young Authors conference.

The students were selected from among 100 Young Authors in District 9 to attend the conference. Each district grade school and one student from Montessori School will be represented.

At the conference, the students will have their writing works read and discussed, with each work being given an official Young Authors seal.

The conference will emphasize language as a communication tool. District students will join others from around the state. The Young Authors will meet in small groups and share writing ideas with noted childrens authors and educators.

Each district school chose one winner for every 50 students and then one student was picked from among 400 students as part of the Young Authors competition. One hundred Young Authors in the district were recently given T-shirts emblazoned with a Young Authors logo as prizes.

Credited for the T-shirts were Bea Stevenson and Lynn Shephard, both from Granite City. Local students, teachers and parents judged the Young Authors contest.

Frohhardt features 'Young Audiences'

Young Audiences Inc. of St. Louis presented "Thunder and Blazes" featuring The St. Louis Brass Quintet at Frohardt Elementary School in March. The Frohardt PTA organized the event.

The program surveys the historic uses of brass instruments from the time of King Tut to the present, featuring both ancient horns and contemporary brass instruments.

Selections from such classics as Rossini's "William Tell Overture" to popular sports and movie themes were included in the program.

Members of the St. Louis Brass Quintet are: Robert Cecchini, principal trumpet for the Muni Opera Orchestra; Melvyn Jernigan, trombone, St. Louis Symphony member; Gene Pororny, principal tuba for the Symphony; Malcolm McDuffee, former member of the St. Louis and New Orleans symphony orchestras; and Nancy Schick, principal horn for the Muni Orchestra.

The St. Louis Chapter of Young Audiences is part of a national network of non-profit organizations that bring live, professional performing arts programs to children and adults in schools and communities.

A funded member of the Arts and Education Council of Greater St. Louis, Young Audiences receives additional funding from the Missouri Arts Council, the Recording Companies of America through the Music Performance Trust Funds, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Regional Arts Commission and individual supporters.

DRUGS & ALCOHOL
Death can result from taking barbiturates and alcohol simultaneously. Chemically, barbiturates and tranquilizers break down into compounds similar to the and products of alcohol. Surprisingly, the total effect is not one plus one = two, but rather one plus one = four; the body's ability to detoxify these poisons is overloaded. Warning: When taking barbiturates or tranquilizers, refrain from drinking alcohol.

Now, callers are dialing 'B' for boat

The "Over!" is over for commercial boats switched to a new telephone network called Watercom.

Callers in the Quad City Area and nationwide no longer have to end their sentences with "Over!" to indicate to the listener it is his turn to speak, said Vail Taylor, vice president of marketing for Waterway Communications System Inc., Jefferson, Ind.

Direct-dial telephone service, through Waterway, is available to boats on 4,000 miles of the inland river system.

A network of 54 shore stations provides direct-dial telephone service to and from boats.

The service extends to boats on the Illinois, Mississippi and Ohio rivers and the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway. It also provides incidental coverage into the Gulf of Mexico.

The new service is similar to cellular telephone service for automobiles and other land vehicles, Taylor said, "except instead of cells, our network is an interlocking ribbon of continuous telephone service."

"We provide private, extremely clear, two-way conversation, the same as normal telephone service."

"The use of ship-to-ship radios is 'public.' In other words, anyone with a receiver can listen to radio transmissions, but they cannot listen in on the Watercom private telephone service."

After the purchase of the Watercom telephone unit, whose base price is $6,000, four rates are competitive, Taylor said.

Conversation calls are 97 cents per minute, while data transmissions are as low as 60 cents per minute.

"Our Watercom is more than a telephone," Taylor said, "because it offers built-in data services as well."

"For example, without any additional onboard equipment, routine boat status information can be transmitted via Watercom to a private data bank at Jeffersonville, and retrieved by home office personnel at their convenience."

Also, the data bank, at all times, will contain the boat's current location, based on a regular "poll" of all 54 shore stations conducted automatically by the Watercom computer.

"With the addition of a printer, written messages also can be sent, and with a personal computer attached to the Watercom phone, complete data transmission becomes possible, transforming every boat into a mobile office," Taylor said.

Waterway has contracted with 14 electronics companies to install the service on boats.

Taylor said it is not necessary to know a boat's location, because when a call to a Watercom-equipped boat is dialed, master computers at Waterway's operations and control center search the network and locate the boat.

When a call is placed from a boat, the Watercom telephone is used just like a conventional telephone. Computers at the nearest shore station automatically access the national telephone system and place the call.

War Memorial visits Parks College

By Bill Aichhorn

Correspondent
The Vietnam Veterans Memorial will be on display at Parks College, June 1 through 7.

The half-size replica is being sponsored by KSHE Radio and hosted by Parks College of St. Louis University in conjunction with the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Alliance.

The event was announced by area veterans groups, representatives of the college and KSHE Radio at the Soldiers Memorial in St. Louis.

"It's important to the entire generation," said Gray, chairman of the Vietnam veterans group.

"Everyone was touched in one way or another by the war. The wall is one symbol of the conflict that we all share."

Gray said, "I was at the original dedication and the feeling that was there is still felt whenever the wall is shown around the country."

The replica is the creation of John Devitt, a Vietnam veteran from San Jose, Calif. While attending the 1982 dedication in Washington, D.C., Devitt was moved to give others a chance to view it.

The display will be on 24-hour viewing at Parks campus. A week of ceremonies is planned for the event starting at 10 a.m. Monday, June 1, with the opening ceremony.

The replica is six feet at its highest point and 250 feet long. It is made of silk-screen and plexiglass.

In letters a quarter-inch high it lists the names of the 58,022

Americans killed or missing in Vietnam.

"It's my hope that the exhibit of this memorial in Cahokia will provide the healing that has been common for the hundreds of thousands who have seen the original, leaving an indelible mark on the emotions of an entire generation," Gray said.

Parks College of St. Louis University is located at the intersection of Illinois 3 and 137, four miles south of the Poplar Street Bridge.

"We are honored to be able to help bring the Moving Wall to the Missouri-Illinois area," said John Beck, general manager of KSHE radio. "Our Vietnam vets have been ignored for too long."

"We look at this event as a positive healing experience for everyone."

New Edwardsville to Granite City bus route

A new Bi-State Agency bus route connecting Alton, Edwardsville, Granite City and SIUE will begin about June 15, it was announced by William Haine, chairman of the Madison County Transit District, which had requested establishment of the route.

Purpose of the route is to provide direct transportation from Alton and Granite City to Edwardsville and to serve Southern Illinois University students and faculty.

Two public hearings and a public meeting for informational purposes are being held.

The informational meeting was set for April 9 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the SIUE University Center. A hearing will be held April 14 at 7 p.m. in the Alton City Hall at 101 E. Third St., Alton.

A second public hearing will be held April 16 at 7 p.m. in the Madison County Courthouse board room at St. Louis and Main streets, Edwardsville.

"The meetings are being held now to allow plenty of time for adjustments to be made if better suggestions are heard at the hearings," Haine said.

The new cross-county route will have two branches, one from Alton to Edwardsville and one from Granite City to Edwardsville. Both branches will loop through the SIUE campus.

The route of the Granite City-Edwardsville branch will begin in Granite City at Edison Avenue and 18th Street and then go north on Edison, east on 20th Street, north on Madison Avenue and Nameoki Road, east on Pon-toon Road, north on Maryville Road, north on Illinois 203, east on Chain of Rocks Road, north on Illinois 111, east on New Poag Road and south on North University Drive, loop through the campus and go east on University Drive and north on Illinois 157 and West Street to the end of the route at the County Courthouse.

Trips returning to Granite City will use the reverse of the above except in Granite City, where the route will travel south on Madison, east on 18th and then north on Edison.

Hours of operation will be from about 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays only.

Jr. Achievers here honored by region

Several Granite City area participants in the Junior Achievement program were recognized at Junior Achievement of Mississippi Valley's mammoth Future Unlimited Banquet, held March 30 at the Clarion Hotel in St. Louis.

Awards were given to 51 superior Junior Achievement companies at the banquet. Granite City companies receiving excellence awards were "Buzco '86," a company sponsored by Illinois Bell Telephone, and "Elmer Fudge," a Granite City Steel-sponsored company. "Teen World," a company sponsored by Illinois Power Co., was chosen as best in the Granite City center.

A five-year advisor service award was received by James Needham of Granite City Steel. Hickey Business School presented a scholarship to Brenda Webb, an Achiever from a JA company sponsored by Granite City Steel.

Chris Bieniecki, an Achiever from a JA company sponsored by Granite City Steel, was awarded a Hermann F. Spoehrer scholarship. This cash scholarship is presented in memory of one of Junior Achievement's former board chairmen.

For over 15 years, Spoehrer was a dominant force in promoting and expanding JA in this metropolitan area. Funds for the Hermann F. Spoehrer awards are made possible by "profit taxes" paid by JA companies.

Kim Woods, an Illinois Bell Achiever, was awarded the first Norm Stawar Memorial Scholarship.

Mr. Stawar, a nine-year JA advisor with Illinois Bell, passed away in January 1987. Through his involvement in Junior Achievement, Mr. Stawar made a "positive and lasting contribution to teenagers," speakers said. This is the first scholarship to be awarded in his memory.

The Granite City area had a good year, utilizing JA's new 15-week high school program, sponsors reported. Since the traditional high school program concluded in February, top Achievers from the program have been trained to conduct Business Basics classes for fifth and sixth grade school classes in the area.

Business Basics introduces the young students to fundamental concepts of businesslike organization, management, production, and marketing in four hour-long sessions.

JA also presents Project Business classes. Junior Achievement's programs are supported by the local business community.

Arch grounds begins closing

The Gateway Arch ground is closed to visitors from 11 p.m. each night to 6 a.m. the next morning, according to an announcement made recently by Jerry Schober, Jefferson National Expansion Memorial superintendent.

This closure, under the authority vested in the superintendent, is being initiated to reduce vandalism to the park resources and to assist in local efforts to make the riverfront a safer and more enjoyable place to visit. The closure also brings the Arch grounds in line with existing closures in city and county parks.

New Lotto 7 game starts on April 22

The Illinois State Lottery Commission will introduce a new game on April 22. Called Lotto 7, it has less numbers and should create more chances to win, lottery officials have announced.

The odds of winning any prize in Lotto 7 is 1 in 83.5, compared to 1 in 50 for the current Lotto, said state lottery director Rebecca Paul.

But the odds of winning the grand prize in the new game are much higher than in the current one, she said.

The new game will be played on Wednesdays, replacing the current Wednesday Lotto game.

Tickets for the new game go on sale April 16. In the new game, players will select 7 of 39 numbers. Currently, they select 6 of 44.

The cost of Lotto 7 will be more than the existing Lotto game. In the 6/44 Lotto game, players pay $1 for two lines of numbers. In Lotto 7, one line of numbers will cost $1.

Lotto 7 drawings will be on Wednesdays only. If no one wins, the prize money will roll over to the next Wednesday.

The Saturday game will roll over from Saturday to Saturday. There will no longer be any Wednesday-Saturday rollovers, Paul said.

While the game will have different numbers, the same formula will be used to determine the prizes.

Prizes are determined on a parimutuel basis, the more tickets sold, the greater the prize. Prize amounts also will depend upon the number of players holding winning tickets.

The total of prizes will be about 50 percent of sales for the drawing period.

Four levels of prizes will be offered.

Fourth prize — Player picks 4 of 7 numbers. The odds of this are 1 in 88.6. This is the minimum prize awarded in Lotto 7 and will never be less than $5.

Third prize — Player picks 5 of 7 numbers. The odds of winning are 1 in 1,477.66.

Second prize — Player picks 6 of 7. The odds are 1 in 68,683.9.

Grand prize — Player hits all 7 numbers. The odds are 1 in 15,380,937.

Lotto 7 will use play slips different from the current 44-numbered slips. The Lotto 7 slip will be numbered 1-39.

Tickets for both games will be available the entire week.

Winners of up to $600 in Lotto 7 may claim their prizes from any of the 7 agents. Winner of more than $600 should file claims for their prize at their Lotto 7 agent. All prizes except for the grand prize will be paid in full, minus required taxes.

The grand prize will be paid in either 30 equal annual payments or a lump sum, depending on the amount and number of winners. If a winner dies before pay-out occurs, the Lotto Commission guarantees to pay the remainder of the prize money to the estate or heirs.

The Illinois lottery began in 1974 and has become the state's third largest source of state revenue, behind income and sales taxes.

Sales totaled $1.3 billion in the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1986, with $551.7 million in profits going to Illinois public schools.

Paul said revenues from the lottery could decrease if Illinois, as expected, joins other states in a multi-state lottery which will offer jackpots as high as $80 million beginning this fall.

Any loss in state revenues caused by players switching to the multi-state lottery would be offset by Illinois' share of revenues from the bigger game, she added.

The IRA isn't dead.

The good news is that the IRA will live on, in some ways changed; in other ways, not changed at all.

First of all, First Bank and Colonial Bank still offer a variety of CDs, including our popular 18-month variable rate certificate:

I.R.A. INVESTMENT OPTIONS
Certificate	Rate	Yield
12-Month	6.50%	6.66%
24-Month	6.75%	6.92%
36-Month	7.00%	7.19%
48-Month	7.25%	7.45%
18-Month Variable	7.00%	7.19%

Interest compounded quarterly. Yield figured on an annual basis. Rates subject to change.

Your 1986 IRA
For the 1986 tax year, the IRA is exactly the same. That means you can deduct up to $2,000 per working person, and up to $4,000, per working couple.

How will IRAs change?
For the 1987 tax year, everyone will still be allowed to defer taxes on their IRA earnings. That's how the IRA stays the same. But there are changes. For example, not everyone will be able to use their IRA contribution as a tax deduction. Still, IRAs will remain one of the few ways to plan for retirement, while at the same time achieving tax savings.

If you have any questions we can help you with, stop by or call us. We can explain what has changed and how you and your IRA can share a profitable future.

More than 100 attend mini-nutrition conference

A mini-Nutrition Support Conference held at St. Elizabeth Medical Center drew 105 physicians, dietitians, pharmacists and nurses from the Metro East area.

The conference, sponsored by Norwich Eaton Pharmaceuticals Inc. and SEMC, featured Ronni Chernoff, Ph.D., R.D., as guest speaker. Dr. Chernoff is the associate director of the Geriatric, Education and Clinical Center for Education and Evaluation at the VA Medical Center, Little Rock, Ark.

The conference was part of month-long activities planned at the medical center, recognizing March as National Nutrition Month.

Dr. Chernoff spoke about two topics in her presentation, which included a slide show. They were: "Nutrition Support in the Acute and Chronically Ill" and "Nutritional Assessment."

In the first session, she focused on physiology and biochemical reactions in response to illness, differences between acute and chronically ill patients, and alternatives in treatment. The second session centered on problems in assessing elderly patients, as well as appropriate and inappropriate tools used in making those assessments.

Throughout the country, Dr. Chernoff has presented numerous conferences, and has appeared on national TV as a guest participant. Several journal articles, abstracts and book reviews written by her on nutrition support have been published in the Journal of the American Diabetic Association, Journal of Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition, and Journal of the American College of Nutrition.

Excerpts from her book have been published in Nutrition Support of Medical Practice and Clinical Nutrition Volume I and II, Enteral Nutrition and Tube Feeding.

RONNIE CHERNOFF, Ph.D., R.D., speaks to health care professionals at a mini-nutrition support conference held recently at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. A total of 105 people attended the conference.

Cooking a la Heart classes scheduled

St. Elizabeth Medical Center will sponsor "Cooking a la Heart" classes, taught by Nancy Teigen, R.D., an outpatient dietitian, starting April 28.

The classes can help participants learn to eat more healthy food and reduce the risk of heart disease. "The recipes we will be preparing are not only low in calories, sodium, fat and cholesterol, but they are very creative and delicious," said Teigen.

Classes will meet on four consecutive Tuesdays, April 28 to May 19, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Cost is $25 per person or $35 per couple. Pre-registration is required due to limited enrollment.

Based on the American Heart Association's dietary guidelines for a healthy diet, participants will learn how to adjust calorie intake, reduce fat and cholesterol intake, shop and read labels correctly — as well as enhance the taste of foods, select and prepare seafood and other meatless meals, and prepare desserts.

The four-week course will also cover basic principles of nutrition, recipe modification, menu planning, and food selection and preparation. Recipes will be demonstrated and participants will be able to taste a variety of prepared dishes.

For more information or to register, the number is 798-3492.

Did the people hang up on telephone tax advocates?

Incumbents lost public favor during the voting Tuesday in Granite City. The incumbents stand for the telephone tax may have contributed to their difficulties.

In the 1st Ward, incumbent Everett Morlen maybe survived by a three-vote margin against Juanita Crawley, who will contest the election. Morlen voted to keep the tax.

Ranking Alderman Sam Whitmer, who voted to keep the tax, fell to Jim Miller in the 2nd Ward.

Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk also voted to keep the tax, but firmly held his seat.

In the 4th Ward, Alderman Tom Hewlett bowed to challenger Dan Partney. Hewlett voted to keep the tax.

Incumbent Lloyd Bailey didn't have a serious problem. He won. He voted to remove the tax as the public directed.

There were no incumbents in the 6th and 7th wards, but the two winners made clear statements about what they thought of the tax.

Sixth Ward victor, Walter Milton, said during the campaign, "it was the voter's choice in 1985 that the people voted to remove (the tax) and the present City Council should have removed the tax."

In the 7th Ward, winner Emerald Dawes said he would support another attempt to repeal the tax.

Out of seven wards, two persons who wanted to keep the tax won office — Morlen by a hair, if at all, and Fisk.

It would be naive to think the telephone tax swayed a majority of votes in any race, but it may have made a difference in the way some voters viewed candidates and in the outcome of some races.

What now is the future of the telephone tax. Based on the past and on campaign statements, if a vote were to be taken after the new council is seated, the voting would stack up this way:

Alderman Casmer Skubish to remove it and Morlen to keep it in the 1st Ward; Alderman Pat Schuman and Miller to remove it in the 2nd Ward; Aldermen Fisk and Brett Hanke to keep it in the 3rd Ward; Alderwoman Sharon Perjak and Partney to remove it in the 4th Ward; Bailey and Alderman Jake Varadian to remove it in the 5th Ward; Milton to remove it and Judy Whitaker to keep it in the 6th Ward; and Dawes to remove it and Worthen to keep it in the 7th Ward.

The council would vote 9-5 to remove the tax, but the nagging question is should it be removed.

The vote against the tax was taken two years ago. In that time there may have been a shift in public thinking, especially since some voters were frightened with the threat of having their property tax increased if the telephone tax was removed. Another consideration is that the city has continued to increase payroll expenditures though its revenue is far less than cities of comparable size, such as Belleville and Alton.

About another year will pass before the tax issue could again be raised. By then, what the public said and understood in 1985 about the tax will be further obscured.

Rather than remove the tax based on a vote taken three years ago, a lifetime ago for some political careers, a better alternative might be to put the issue on a binding referendum during the 1988 elections.

Perhaps some smart candidate running in the next election might use the issue to help get himself elected.

Serious voting allegations

Mayor John Bellcoff of Madison is right in reporting to County Clerk Evelyn Bowles and State's Attorney Dick Allen that a number of non-residents apparently cast votes in his city Tuesday. Witnesses and records are said to bear out his allegations.

Election violations, if verified, are a severe offense and ought to be treated as such by Madison County.

It may have puzzled some people that voting places were set up in township precincts even though only municipal and park offices were on the ballot. This procedure stemmed from the consolidated election law that places the county clerk in total charge of all election jurisdictions.

But it should be clear to anyone that a person can't vote for officials of a city where he doesn't reside. That would be "representation without taxation" — with officials chosen by persons other than those they are to serve.

This basic rule is even more obvious to precinct committeemen and election judges. Poll officials are trained by the county to understand the law and are sworn to uphold it. Nothing less is acceptable.

Poll judges are taught how to accurately handle voting involving overlapping or adjacent governmental districts; it isn't a requirement that just developed this week. Different voters are served by differing combinations of taxing bodies and always have been. It's complicated, but not to those in authority who have access to voter lists and codes.

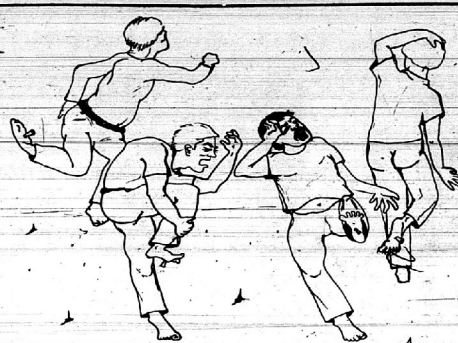

In addition to whatever prosecution results, the clerk ought to fire all judges who encouraged or tolerated such confusion as that occurring at the 2nd Nameoki Precinct. Even veteran poll leaders — especially, veteran poll leaders — must be judged on their performance, or non-performance, of fundamental, important duties.

Madison, the Quad City Area and Madison County have a lot to live down from past irregularities. This is no time to go back to the "bad old days." Proper voters' true preferences must be allowed to prevail.

Surely, Democratic officeholders don't want to return to the pattern of several decades ago, when Republican governors felt they had to send in massive contingents of state troopers to add election-day muscle to the laws of Illinois.

It's the tax that made candidates dance...

Illinois seniors are hurt by new tax legislation

To the editor:

A change in the new federal income tax law that results in an increase in the Illinois income tax for taxpayers age 65 or over has never been given any publicity.

On the Illinois income tax return, as many exemptions can be claimed at $1,000 each as is claimed on the federal return. The new federal tax law eliminated the additional exemption previously allowed for those 65 or over. Thus a person 65 or over can now claim only one exemption on the Illinois return, instead of two, as in previous years.

A married couple, both 65 or over, with the same taxable income as in 1986, will automatically have an increase in their Illinois tax of $50. A single individual 65 or older will pay an additional $25 to the state of Illinois in 1987 and each year thereafter.

The Illinois Legislature and governor should rectify at once this unjust and unwarranted increase in the state income-tax of senior citizens. Remember, those of us who aren't 65 hope to be someday.

If you agree with this, cut this out, sign your name and address, and mail it to me at 3440-3rd St., "B," East Moline, Ill. 61244, and I will forward them en masse to the governor's office in Springfield.

Others sought with disease

To the editor:

I am contacting your newspaper because since childhood I have suffered from a rare, debilitating and potentially fatal disease called scleroderma. Not only did I feel frustrated and alone growing up, but to complicate matters, my mother recently came down with this devastating disease.

In our search for answers and support we eventually located the United Scleroderma Foundation. Not only did we receive information, we received a renewed "hope" that we were no longer alone. We learned that this disease affects some 700,000 people and that President Ronald Reagan declared the second week of June as National Scleroderma Awareness Week.

I'm so thrilled to no longer feel isolated that I want to shout from the rooftops so others won't have to suffer alone as I did these last 40 years.

Please make your readers aware of the USF Inc., P.O. Box 350, Watsonville, Calif. 95077. Their toll free number says it all, 800-722-HOPE. They have information and answers I never believed existed.

Thank you for your assistance.

Any surprises in elections?

Residents were asked Wednesday what their reactions were to the results of the city-wide elections Tuesday. Granite Citizens elected seven candidates as aldermen, voted in two races for seats on the board of park commissioners and re-elected incumbent Superintendent of Streets Mac Warfield to his post.

Cliff Brokman, Granite City
"My candidate didn't get elected (in the 7th Ward), but it was close. I figured Partney would get in. I wanted him to win, but I couldn't vote for him."

Jim Ortiz, Granite City
"I don't think it was predictable. There were some surprises. It was pretty good in general — clean and fair. I came in third, but I was tickled pink with the votes I received."

Arcoline Lombardi, Granite City
"No surprises. Very predictable. I think the candidates ran their campaigns fair."

2nd weekend trip to Gatlinburg planned

Due to a tremendous response to its plans for a trip to the Gatlinburg, Tenn., area, the Granite City Park District will be sponsoring an additional trip on the following weekend, May 29-31. Tickets are now on sale at the Wilson Park office.

Rooms have been reserved at the Brookside Resort in Gatlinburg and the highlight of the trip will be a trip to "Dollywood" in Pigeon Forge, Tenn.

The group will be greeted at Brookside with a wine and cheese reception. The motel is at the north gateway to the Great Smoky Mountain National Park in a natural setting within three blocks of Gatlinburg's downtown attractions. A mountain stream flows along the back of the property, with two covered bridges over it.

Due to the length of the trip, nothing has been planned as a group activity on the Friday or Saturday evenings, but there are country and western music shows and many shopping areas nearby. A trolley system runs in front of the motel for access to the area attractions.

The cost of the trip is $134.65 for a single, $104.65 each for two to a room, $93.90 each for three to a room and $89.15 each for four to a room. The full amount must be paid at the time of reservation.

The people who were in line on the day the first trip went on sale and who were not able to be included will be given priority for reservations.

Reservations can be made for no more than four persons, with proof of residence being presented for each person making the trip.

For information, the park office can be called at 877-3059.

Trimpe honored

The Gateway East Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa chose the occasion of its 25th anniversary celebration to recognize three of its members on their contributions to education. Wilbur R. L. Trimpe, Louis Barron and Dr. H. Bruce Brubaker.

Trimpe, formerly acting administrator of the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, received a service key.

A member of Phi Delta Kappa for 37 years, Trimpe is retired. He has served in many posts, including regional superintendent of schools for Madison County and president of Lewis & Clark Community College.

In the late 1960s and early 1970s, during a teacher shortage, Trimpe chaired the chapter's Teacher Recruitment Committee and co-sponsored annual Future Teacher Conferences. When the shortage ceased, his efforts focused on assuring quality education in the classroom.

Barron was named Kappan of the year. He is a veteran fourth grade teacher in Bethalto.

Dr. Brubaker, received special recognition for his contributions to the chapter and to education. A retired SIUE professor of education, he was instrumental in founding the Gateway East Chapter.

Plans were made for a noon luncheon meeting at Char's Restaurant and Inn, Collinsville, April 4, with Robert L. Monks, author of "Legal Basics for Teachers," conducting a Phi Delta Kappa Foundation workshop from 3 to 6 p.m. The program chairman is Robert Vickers, superintendent of the Venice school district.

Walk-on to host potluck, tour

A potluck meal and tour at the Old Six Mile Museum at Maryville Road and Emert Avenue is being hosted by Walk-on, a group for widows and widowers, on Monday, April 20, at 5 p.m.

The Old Six Mile Museum, owned and operated by the Old Six Mile Historical Society, represents the history of Granite City and the surrounding area. The residence was built 150 years ago.

Elizabeth Neesley, a representative of Thomas Mortuaries Ltd. and coordinator of Walk-On, said, "In 1981 Granite City was originally called Six Mile. I hope people will attend this tour to learn more about the history and attend the potluck to meet others who are adjusting to a new lifestyle after the death of a loved one.

Anyone planning to attend is asked call Neesley at 876-4321 by April 17. A covered dish should be brought to the potluck. The potluck will be followed by a tour and presentation by society representatives.

Walk-on (Widows and widowers are learning knowledge of necessities) was started by Thomas Mortuaries Ltd. to help individuals deal with the loss of a loved one. An educational/social program and bereavement self-help meeting is held each month.

BART SOLON
President

O. My wife and I have tried everything to put ourselves on a budget, and nothing seems to work. Our plans last for a month or so, then we're right back to our old "free spending" ways. Do you have any last-ditch suggestions?

A. You've made significant progress already, you've admitted you have a problem. There is a method that will, if nothing else, heighten your awareness of where your money is going, and how much you're spending. And, that may be the impetus you need to create a budget and stay with it. The method is simply to keep track, for one month of everything you spend. Everything. Keep a piece of paper of a small notepad in your pocket and mark down every thing—from a candybar, to dinner, to a suit. Everything. Every penny. This will highlight relatively small expenditures that add up, and will give you good clues as to where you might begin to cut down. Many people who have done this simple exercise have been astounded at the amount spent over a month's time, and for what. And that usually starts the budget rolling!

Palm Sunday activities at St. John Lutheran

Scheduled to be confirmed in their faith on Palm Sunday at St. John Lutheran Church, 2001 St. Clair Ave., are four young people, Beth Ann Bolandis, Michael Joe Durbin, Elaine Michelle Franklin and Nicole Aleen Futrell.

Each will read a short essay about Christian faith at the Confirmation ceremony Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

The Palm Sunday service will open with a procession by the confirmation classes of the seventh and eighth grades, the students carrying palms. The Church choir will follow, along with the pastor and Seminarian David Rameil.

Organist for the service will be Seminarian Robert Oeltjen of Creve Coeur. The ladies of the choir will sing the anthem, "Rejoice, Ye Pure in Heart" by S. Bach. The pastor, Samuel Boda, will deliver the festive Palm Sunday message.

As part of the confirmation ceremony, each member of the class will receive a gift Bible from the congregation as a remembrance of confirmation and as an encouragement to make Bible reading a daily habit. Confirmation pictures will be taken after the service.

Members of the class will be robed in white and will wear a white carnation.

On Holy Thursday, also called Maundy Thursday, the class will experience Holy Communion for the first time, at a special service at 7 p.m. at the church. All communicant members of the congregation will also be invited to take part.

Preaching on Thursday evening will be Seminarian Gary Childs. The organist will be Seminarian Robert Oeltjen. Both attend Concordia Seminary, St. Louis.

Investment real estate expected to stay strong

Positive rates of return, not tax incentive, account for the continuing popularity of investments in multifamily housing projects, according to analysts at the National Association of Realtors.

In analyzing the results of a recent survey of investment real estate brokers who said multi-family housing properties continue to account for one third of real estate investment transactions, NAR economists predicted that these properties will likely remain the most popular form of investment real estate in 1987, even under the new tax law.

Although construction of multifamily housing projects can be expected to drop off significantly this year because of less generous tax incentives, those who choose to invest in real estate will find multifamily properties to be very attractive investments," said Forrest Faltberg, director of economic analysis, for the association's forecasting and policy analysis division.

The most recent investment real estate survey taken by the association showed that 33 percent of all investment properties recently bought and sold were multifamily housing projects, while 21 percent were retail buildings, 16 percent were office buildings, 14 percent were industrial projects, 14 percent were land and 2 percent were hotel/motel properties.

More than 11,000 investment real estate specialists were surveyed by the association last fall, yielding information on more than 1,000 investment transactions. Just over 80 percent of all reported transactions were closed in 1986, with 9 percent closed in 1985.

Faltberg, who analyzed the survey with Fred Flick, acting vice president of NAR's forecasting and policy division, predicted that though multifamily properties can be expected to comprise a larger share of the investment real estate market this year, overall investment is likely to drop from last year.

1990s housing looks will be vastly changed

By William J. Devereaux Jr., Berkus Group Architects

Housing design trends have been evolutionary since the scramble for new solutions to affordable housing of the '70s. As the '80s close out, this will change dramatically.

There is one overwhelming element that will force this dramatic shift in housing design: the buyer wants single-family living but can't afford single-family housing.

Housing design is going to have to concentrate on the high density design with a single-family appearance.

The typical urban home of the 1990s will resemble the European 17th Century villa in numerous ways as the pressure of metropolitan living, the cost of land and the need for privacy converge.

The entrance to the residence will be at the street with a wall defining the auto court and the relatively small lot (50x80 feet or smaller), providing privacy.

A formal landscaped courtyard leads to double 8-foot-high entry doors with glass above. The foyer, even in a 1,600-square foot house, presents a high ceiling with lots of glass, marble or ceramic flooring and open vistas into the formal living area and outside to a landscaped courtyard. The foyer also leads to a formal library separated from it by french doors.

Once past the entrance foyer, the next most important part of the urban home will be the master bedroom area. It will become the nerve center of the urban house, taking over from the kitchen.

It will have direct access to the library or its own work space. The sitting area, bath/spa-exercise area will all gain in importance, and be separated from the bedroom by see-through fireplaces, wet bars, movable walls or partial walls.

This urban home or "mini-mansion" will take on a more formal look and present an elegant and therefore expensive exterior appearance. The formal exterior will blend with few formal rooms (foyer, living room and dining room) and a wide open, contemporary interior with airy spaces that are defined by formal elements (columns, half walls, floor level changes and glass walls).

Lighting, long ignored in housing design, will be essential in order to emphasize the dramatic yet elegant interior.

The suburban house of the 1990s also will undergo a radical change. The pressure here for high density single-family housing will be extreme as land prices continue to skyrocket. New solutions that attach single-family houses without making the house feel attached will be most successful.

The new attached single-family home will provide densities in the range of 5 to 10 units-per-acre and will be designed to fit the topography. The opportunity to market a product that competes with the suburban townhouse and stacked flat condo will lead to a home in 1,200 to 1,800 square-foot range that approaches eight dwelling units per acre.

This home will look like a single-family house from the street with the entrance being in the form of fencing, breezeways or storage areas. The garage will be an important element in maintaining the single-family atmosphere.

A light, open entry area will welcome guests, and the interior of the home will be designed to take advantage of views and open space.

Room definitions will be less clear but the house will be zoned into privacy areas. The nerve center of this house will be the kitchen and informal living area. The kitchen/"lodge room" will be the large space of the house providing food preparation, eating, work and entertainment functions.

Secondary family spaces will radiate off this space with lofts and open hallways looking over this volume or two-story "lodge room." The master bedroom, when square footage allows, will still require sitting space and a luxurious bath if space and dollars permit.

The house will reflect the indigenous architecture of the area and the cluster will be designed to work as a single elevation rather than as three or four individual narrow homes. This "blended" architectural statement will allow individuality within the new, denser single-family community.

Natural lighting of interiors take on new importance. Skylights and greenhouses will continue to be popular, but the 1990s will see the use of movable roofs, light wells and rooms that "float" over other rooms to allow natural light to filter down through the home.

New ideas in housing design are being accepted in the marketplace throughout the country faster than at any time in recent history.

These trend will only intensify as the 1990s approach. Economic constraints and the desire to maintain the single-family lifestyle will require rapid changes in homebuilding design.

Bi-State talks extended again

The Bi-State bus system and Amalgamated Transit Union Local 788 have extended for the third time negotiations on a labor contract that expired Feb. 28.

The talks will be extended through April 20, Bi-State Board Chairman C. Wayne Spann and Union President Robert Bartlett announced in a joint statement issued last week.

Negotiations have proceeded smoothly up to this point, the statement said. The extension will allow the bargaining to continue.

The union represents more than 1,500 Bi-State Transit System bus drivers and maintenance and service personnel. The current contract has been in effect for two years.

KITCHEN & BATH IDEAS

SPACE-PLANNING IS ESSENTIAL IN BOTH KITCHEN AND BATHROOM

Most of us don't realize it because most of us seldom even think about it, but the difficulty in any kitchen remodeling project is really the same as it is in remodeling a bathroom. And that is space planning. The task of placing objects that have specific dimensions into the space in a way that saves steps and eliminates exasperation every day. The difficulty is compounded by the fact that nearly all of these objects have parts that move doors that open drawers that pull out. That's why it is so important to consult with a professional. Only the pro has ultimate knowledge of the specific uses of all the products to fit the space you have available. And that's why we are here to help you. So call us when you have those kinds of problems.

Movie reviews

By Frank Hunter

OVER THE TOP — Divorced truck driver Sylvester Stallone struggles to understand his son while battling a gonish Las Vegas arm-wrestling champ. A hokey brawler larded with cheers, jeers, sweating, grunting, sore muscles and the usual violence and chauvinism. (xx½) Rated PG-13.

RADIO DAYS — Woody Allen's sentimental, good-humored valentine to his youth, a time when people crowded around the old Philco and had their imaginations fired by the nation's top broadcast writers, actors, comedians and musicians. Allen wrote the script and handles the narration. (xxx½) Rated PG (Language, mild sexuality).

BLACK WIDOW — Lady cop Debra Winger and psychotic Theresa Russell are the wily femmes in a slick and sleazy menace-and-mayhem melodrama, with Russell wedding and shedding rich husbands by murder most foul. Respectable performances, occasionally sluggish, tinged with violence, a nasty dismemberment and a trick ending. (xxx½) Rated R. (Sexuality, violence.)

FROM THE HIP — Tasteless tripe with Judd Nelson as a grandstanding young lawyer with a lust for television notoriety. The producer deserves 20 years in the slammer for this crack-brained atrocity about warring attorneys and their courtroom tantrums, objections and stupid gavel-throwing. (x½) Rated PG (Language).

OUTRAGEOUS FORTUNE — A shrill, vulgar, but occasionally droll comedy notable for the chemistry between stars Bette Midler and Shelly Long. Rowdy, contrived chase film that winds up in the desert with George Carlin as a drunken Indian involved with Midler and Long and some CIA/ KGB types. (xxx½) Rated R (Language, sexual theme).

PLATOON — Writer-director Oliver Stone delivers a fictionalized but awesome account of his experiences in Vietnam as seen through the eyes of Pfc. Chris Taylor (Charlie Sheen).

Tom Berenger and Willem Dafoe are the tough sergeants who put Taylor and everyone else to the test. The stomach-turning violence won't enchant the ladies, but the battle scenes are incredibly realistic.

An Academy Award nominee for best picture. (xxxxx) Rated R. (Relentless four letter wordery, gore.)

THE BEDROOM WINDOW — An adulterous affair, a psycho-pubic killer and a well-meaning gone awry form the elements of this Hitchcockian thriller starring Steve Guttenberg and Isabelle Huppert. Fair technical qualities but decently acted—a window worth peeking through. (xx½) Rated R. (Nudity.)

A ROOM WITH A VIEW — Director James Ivory's civilized, finely detailed filming of E.M. Forster's novel set in turn-of-the-century Italy and England, an atmospheric story of Edwardian ways by those of means with strong ensemble work by Denholm Elliott, Maggie Smith, Simon Callow, Helena Bonham Carter and fine supporting cast. An Academy Award nominee for best picture. (xxxxx) Unrated. (Mild male nudity.)

CHILDREN OF A LESSER GOD — William Hurt and hearing-impaired actress Marlee Matlin score in director Randa Haines' adaptation of Mark Medoff's drama about a love affair between an unorthodox speech therapist and a brilliant deaf girl working as a cleaning woman in a school she once attended.

A poignant drama about the need for self-esteem that received an Academy Award nomination for best picture. (xxxxx½) Rated R (Language, sexual theme).

CROCODILE DUNDEE — Affectionate satirical swipe at the clash of cultures, with Aussie actor Paul Hogan playing a swashbuckling outdoorsman mangled by a croc and turned into a celebrity-hero by New York newspaperwoman Linda Kozlowski.

A droll and observant comedy about cocktailing Manhattan sophisticates, hookers and muggers as seen through the eyes of a laid-back character from the Australian outback. (xxxxx) Rated PG-13 (Language).

THE GOLDEN CHILD — Tedious, talky comedy with Eddie Murphy hot to save mankind aided by a cute kid.

A lax script sabotages a film that doesn't do a thing for Murphy's career. (xx½) Rated PG-13 (Language).

STAR TREK IV — The best of the bunch as the Enterprise crew saves 20th century earth from incineration with sonar assistance from several endangered humpback whales. Funny and exciting. (xxxxx) Rated Rated PG. (Some violence.)

LIGHT OF DAY — Director Paul Schrader goes off in too many directions spinning dual yarns about a mother's death and her son's and daughter's rock band career. Michael J. Fox and Jon Jett are the kids and Gena Rowlands plays mom. (xx½) Rated PG-13 (Language).

AN AMERICAN TAIL — Producer Stephen Spielberg's first crack at animation, a fantasy swirling around a 19th century mouse who nearly drowns sailing from the old country to America in search of his family. Clever children's film designed by animator Don Bluth. (xxx½) Rated G.

HOOSIERS — Ex-basketball coach Gene Hackman's special brand of not-so-gentle nursing restores some anemic 1952 Indiana basketballers to health and the team wins the state championship for the hometown. (xxx½) Rated PG (Language).

SOME KIND OF WONDERFUL — John Hughes, who scored with The Breakfast Club and Sixteen Candles, takes a bresome sophomore look at teenage trauma, focusing on a boy who wants to study art in college, despite objections by his father. (x½) Rated PG (Language).

DEATH BEFORE DISHONOR — Routine, hackneyed actioner with Fred Dryer of TV's Hunter bossing a squad of anti-terror Marines.

Brian Keith is the State Department rep dealing with Middle Eastern violence spawned by three killers, Kasey Walker is a deadly assassin, and sexy photographer Joanna Pacula decorates the set and snaps away at anything that moves. (xx) Rated R. (Violence.)

BURGLAR — Whoopi Gold-

berg peddles books by day and turns into a crafty second story gal whelp. The San Francisco evening sun goes down. Bob Goldwaite has her hyperkinetic best friend who groom's poodles for a living. (Language.)

A NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET, PART III — There's a touch of humor, the shock sequences are superb, but the teenagers, traumatized and slaughtered by a monster conjured up in their dreams are lousy actors and that puts the whammy on this sequel. (xxx½) Rated R. (Violence, gore.)

TIN MEN — Bachelor seducer Richard Dreyfuss and family man Danny DeVito are Baltimore aluminum siding peddlers who hate each other, live off next-month's commissions and rip off unsuspecting customers during the 1960s.

A STATE OF EMERGENCY — A well-intentioned but lagard adventure with Martin Sheen as an atomic scientist who quits his job to join the battle for nuclear sanity after conversion by a vision related to the 1917 Miracle of Fatima.

Fionnula Flanagan is the physician's skeptical, supportive wife. (xx½) Rated PG. (Mild language and violence.)

WhaleyCardinals good,
but 2nd to Mets

With all of the bitterness and frustration of 1986 perhaps swept aside, the 1987 Cardinals opened their season Tuesday afternoon in Chicago.

Last season was a year that began with high hopes for a second straight National League pennant, then came to a virtual halt by Memorial Day as the New York Mets put a stranglehold on the National League East they never relinquished.

As much as the Mets soared in the early months, and in fact the whole season that's how much the Cardinals struggled in the first half of 1986. Injuries to the pitching staff, threw them off course, but the offense was what really disappeared. Whitey Herzog's team fell 20 games off the pace before the All-Star break, and a promising season was over almost as soon as it began.

But that's all forgotten now. Everybody started even on Monday, and hopes once again are high in St. Louis, especially after the 9-3 win over the Cubs in the opener. Cardinal fans figured the Mets wouldn't take charge as they did last year, and now the Mets have started to run like those nagging runners which have seemed to plague recent champions.

Injuries, drug problems and various other situations have brought attention to the world champions, but don't think for a minute they still won't be plenty good.

But the Cardinals have become an automatic contender in the eyes of many people as a result of last week's trade with the Pittsburgh Pirates. In that one, the Cardinals dealt outfielder Andy Van Slyke, catcher Mike Lavalliere and pitcher Mike Dunne to the Buccaneers for catcher Tony Pena.

Pena, a flamboyant type, has long been coveted by Cardinal fans who have been hoping for an All-Star caliber receiver since the departure of Ted Simmons. Darrell Porter carried on a three-year love-hate relationship with the fans, and Mike Heath was a bust last season. Tom Nieto and Lavalliere had their moments in the recent past, but Pena could be the answer.

He's very solid behind the plate, and an all-around player. His batting average is near .290 and he can drive in 75 runs for the Cardinals, he will have done his job.

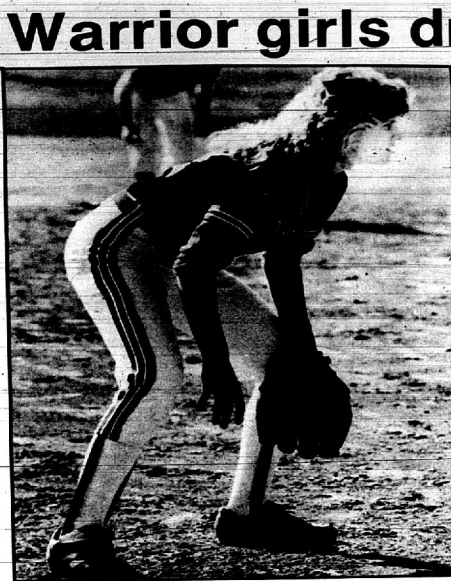

The departure of Van Slyke, maybe the best defensive outfielder the Cardinals have ever had, opened up right field for rookie Jim Lindeman, who won't be compared to Van Slyke defensively. But he drove in 19 runs during spring training, and Herzog hopes he and Pena combine to provide Jack Clark some protection in the lineup.

Outside of that, the rest of the starters remain the same. And John Tudor, Dan Cox, Greg Matthews and Bob Forsch return as the top four starters, with Dave Lapan, a recycled Cardinal, the top candidate to join the rotation when the schedule picks up.

Todd Worrell will be counted on to get the Cardinals' offense going. If he has a bad year, forget it. Ken Dayley's return will be very important, and Rick Horton will again be Mr. Versatility on the staff. Help for Worrell is vital, and it could come from Greg Bargar, a flamethrower who struggled last year but looked good in the spring. He starts the year at Louisville.

Another potential helper is left-hander Joe Magrane, also starting at Louisville. He is the top pitching prospect in the system, and penants are usually won with the help of people who aren't on the major league roster.

Trojanettes rolling

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

As the year goes on, the Madison Trojanettes look tougher and tougher to beat.

The Madison girls track team won its seventh meet of the year Tuesday, and they have yet to lose an outdoor meet. They finished 12th at the Charleston Indoor Invitational March 21.

The Trojanettes were awesome in rolling to a tri-state victory at Trenton, N.J. on Tuesday. Keeping an eye on the 'zebras'

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

When you go to a basketball game, there are 30 men to watch on the court, right? And chances are all the photographers on the sidelines are focusing in on the 12 players. But that's not always the case.

During the Illinois Class AA basketball tournament in Champaign March 20-21, free lance photographer Bill Koenig of Granite City had his camera trained on the other two guys on the court — the referees.

Koenig and Larry Todoroff, also of Granite City, were in Champaign doing a study of the officials and their work during the tournament. They are hoping to have some photos and a story published in things like the IHSAA Interscholastic Referee Magazine and the National Federation of Interscholastic Sports publication.

Todoroff, who is a teacher and coach at Alton High School as well as a baseball and softball umpire, said he wanted to let everyone know what the life of an official is like.

The mindset is the same for all of them," he said. "They have a love for the game, and they are there to protect the integrity of the game. Most people see them as bad guys because they think they are there to catch players doing something wrong."

"But they get pumped up for big games just like players do. We found out they really get fired up when their names are announced just before the games start."

Koenig and Todoroff focused mainly on Phil Coady of Wood River and Don Cobb of Glen Carbon, the only two referees from southern Illinois to work at the tournament. Todoroff knows both of them well and has plenty of respect for their work.

"Phil and Don are two of the best referees in the state, if not the best," Todoroff said.

"They are very smooth and well-conditioned," Koenig said. "They are always ahead of the play and make good, quick calls. They are two of the best, and that opinion is shared by the people at the state level."

In addition to watching the officials work, Koenig and Todoroff spent a lot of time with them when they weren't doing a game.

"The ones who aren't working stay together," Todoroff said. "And they aren't there to criticize. They talk mostly about basketball. They will compliment a game official on a call, but they won't criticize them."

"And when they watch videos of themselves, they never come out and say they missed one. But they will ask, 'Do you think I made the right call?'"

Todoroff said the officials prepare for a game much like a team does.

"It's just like they're scouting a team," he said. "They discuss the players and coaches, and they know the style of both teams."

"They know what teams play above the rim and which don't," Koenig said. "For instance, the officials knew the quarterfinal game between Peoria Manual and Quincy would be tough because of their contrasting styles. Manual plays most of their game above the rim and Quincy didn't have many players who could get up to the rim. They had to watch for the smaller players coming underneath when the big guys went up, and things like that."

The smaller Quincy team, by the way, upset No. 1 Manual in overtime in that game.

"Basketball is a very tough game to officiate," Todoroff said. "There are so many judgement calls involving charging and blocking. And we found out there is a totally different style in officiating between referees in the southern and northern parts of the state. In the south, we call a very conservative and tight game, while they let them play much more in the north. So when there is a mix of officials or teams, it can be interesting."

Coady and Cobb did the quarterfinal game between Elgin and Chicago King, two northern teams accustomed to officials letting them play.

"Phil and Don weren't going to change their style of officiating for those teams," Todoroff said. "And neither team really felt comfortable with them."

"But there weren't many complaints," Koenig said.

Four teams of officials are assigned to the tournament in Champaign, and each team gets to work one quarterfinal on Friday and one game on Saturday. Coady and Cobb also did the third place game between Quincy and Westchester St. Joseph.

"They don't spend much time with anyone but the other officials," Todoroff said. "They were very cooperative with us, but they were either working a game, watching a game with other officials or going back to where they were staying."

"I learned to respect the work of all of them. It's a tremendous job to officiate the state final games. The officials are recommended by coaches across the state and are judged on fitness, preparation, mechanics and many other things. They aren't just looking for the ones that passed the written test."

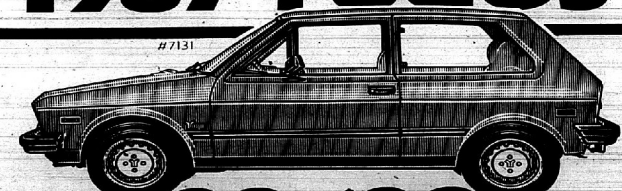

Officials usually get to do the state finals for only three years, then the state wants others to get the chance.

Koenig and Todoroff have hopes of doing similar work on college referees next year, doing some Big 8 of Big-10 games or maybe even the NCAA Tournament. They have also photographed the Indianapolis 500 time trials, and Koenig has done a lot of work for calendar companies and outdoor publications like Montana Geographic and Montana Magazine.
